History of Caldwell and Livingston Counties, Missouri 1886

Page 1 The county of Caldwell lies at a mean distance of 140 miles west from Hannibal and the Mississippi River, 40 miles east of St. Joseph and Missouri, and about 60 miles from the northern boundary of the state. Its area is 18 miles north and south, by 24 miles east and west and comprises 432 square miles.

Page 101 Up to December 26, 1836, what is now Caldwell county comprised a portion of Ray. The latter county was organized November 16, 1820, out of Howard, and named for Hon. John Ray.

Page 92-94 Jesse Mann, Sr. became the first settler of Caldwell County in the spring of 1831. Jesse Mann was born in Prince George county, Va. near Petersburg, October 15, 1765. He married Nancy White in Elbert county, Ga. February 20, 1800 and they became the parents of fourteen children.

In the spring of 1832 Abraham Coutz, Thomas Vanderpool, William Givens, and Wallace McAfee settled in the vicinity of Kingston; Thornton Gwinn, David Gwinn, and Henry Gwinn settled in Mirabile township: Frank McGuire located at Salem; Elisha Cameron settled in Grant Township, and Zephaniah Woolsey in Fairview Township; Robert White came from Ohio and located in Fairview township; or at the "Mormontown Ford".

In 1833, Samuel Hill, Eppa Mann, Esq. McGuire, and George Roland settled in Kingston; George Williams settled near Kingston Jesse Clevenger and Joseph Hightower in Mirable township. Michael Turnidge also came to Mirable.

Some of the settlers who came in 1834 were Henry Lee, David Roland, Richard Beemer, and Henry Crowley. In 1835 came Thomas Skidmore, John Fletcher, Jesse Fletcher, and Thomas Fletcher. In 1836, among others who came were William Royce, Thomas Crandall, Abe Jones, Sam K. McGee, John Taylor, Lewis Jackson, and James Lee.

The first white settler in Caldwell county was Jesse Mann who came in March, 1831. Following him came John Raglan and Ben Lovell, and in July his son, Jesse M. Mann.

The first child of white parents was born to Joseph and Elizabeth Hightower, in October 1832.

The first wedding occurred in May, 1832 when Hardin Stone and Julia Mann were married. The ceremony took place at the bride's father, Jesse Mann, Sr. and was performed by Rev. John Stone, a brother of the groom.

The first schools were taught by the Mormons. In the vicinity of Kingston the first school was taught by a young lady Mormon, Miss Mary Ann Duty. This was in 1838.

Page 251 The first court house in Kingston was put up in 1843. In point of architectural beauty it was not very attractive.

The second court house was built in 1854-5. On the night of April 19, 1860, this court house was burned. Not a single thing of value, not a book, or record, or paper was saved.

The following records have been listed alphabetically according to families.

The page number given is where they may be found in the Marriage Record Book A which is in the Caldwell County Courthouse in Kingston, Missouri.
